What is the Allergy Aware Scheme?

Allergy UK understands that one of the biggest fears for people living with food allergy is eating out. Our consumer survey (Allergy UK, ‘Living in Fear’, 2015) revealed that 92% of those living with allergy are scared to eat out. Allergy UK’s Allergy Aware Scheme recognises caterers who provide peace of mind to both customers and staff; customers feel reassured that they are eating at a restaurant or café that takes food allergy seriously, whilst staff feel confident that they have the necessary training to cater for people with food allergy.

95% of people living with food allergy would feel more confident eating out at a food outlet that was recognised by Allergy UK’s Allergy Aware Scheme (Allergy UK, ‘Eating out with food allergy or intolerance’, 2016)

By demonstrating that you are a responsible catering outlet, you can attract more customers through your door, providing you with a competitive advantage.

Why join the Allergy Aware Scheme?

The key advantages for joining the Allergy Aware Scheme are:

- Legal compliance (evidence for your local Environment Health Officer that you’re going above and beyond, which should aid your Food Hygiene rating)
- Expanding your customer base (being an industry leader and meeting the needs of the allergic community)
- Reassurance to diners (a positive dining experience for those with allergy)
- Confidence for staff (understanding and ability to serve those with allergy, putting less pressure on certain members of staff having to take responsibility)
- Credibility (working with national charity Allergy UK, undertaking an independent audit)
